Pro-Ship Obtains “B” Score in CDP's “Climate Change Report 2024”

Pro-Ship Incorporated has received a "B" score in the CDP (Carbon Disclosure Project) Climate Change Program, which evaluates our activities for climate change disclosure in 2024.

CDP is an international non-profit organization whose primary activity is to encourage companies and municipalities to disclose information on their environmental initiatives. These initiatives include climate change action, water resource protection, and forest conservation, at the request of institutional investors and major purchasing companies around the world that are highly concerned about environmental issues. CDP annually evaluates a company's environmental efforts on an eight-level scale of A, A-, B, B-, C, C-, D, and D-. Pro-Ship received the third highest score "B" on this eight-level scale. The "B" score is considered to be at the “management level” in CDP’s evaluation criteria. This indicates that the company is aware of its environmental risks and impacts and taking action to address them.

Based on our corporate philosophy of "Speciality for Customer," we aspire to evolve into a global enterprise that provides "the world's best fixed asset management solutions" through specialized services that only we can do, and we will continue to contribute to the reduction of environmental burdens and the realization of the sustainable development goals.
