II Reasons

We recognize that returning profits to our shareholders is an important management priority. We have been considering shareholder return measures, including dividends and share buybacks, while taking into account our operating results, financial position, and core free cash flow (Note) status.

In the financial results for FY2025 announced today, both revenue and profit have grown, and core free cash flow has also significantly improved year-over-year, excluding the impact of an increase in working capital.

As a result of a comprehensive review of our capital requirements—including investments for business growth such as R&D for future expansion and M&A—as well as the need to secure internal reserves, we have decided to pay a year-end dividend of 2.25 yen per share for FY2025.

(Note) Core free cash flow = Cash flows from operating activities + Payments for intangible assets
