Notice Regarding Publication of a note Article on the Succession of NetRegi Business

On September 25, 2026, Smaregi, Inc.(the “Company”) announced that it had concluded an absorption-type company split agreement to succeed to the NetRegi business operated by CXD NEXT Co., Ltd.(“CXD NEXT”), a wholly owned subsidiary of Casio Computer Co., Ltd.

To supplement certain aspects of the timely disclosure that may be difficult to fully understand from the disclosure alone, and to provide a clearer understanding of the transaction to a broader audience, we have published a Q&A-style explanatory article on note.

The article summarizes, based on the information currently available, key points for understanding the transaction, including why Smaregi decided to succeed to the business, what will and will not be included in the succession, how existing customers will be affected, migration to the Company’s services, and the impact on the Company’s results.

The effective date of the Absorption-Type Split is scheduled for December 1, 2026. We are currently proceeding with the preparations necessary for a smooth business succession, including the legal procedures required for the Absorption-Type Split.
