Notice Regarding the deposit into the “Social Impact Deposit” (nickname: “Education Plus Deposit”)

Maruichi Steel Tube Ltd. (the “Company”) hereby announce that our company has made a deposit in the “Social Impact Deposit” (nickname: “Education Plus Deposit”), newly launched by Resona Bank, Limited, in support of its purpose and objectives.

The “Social Impact Deposit (Education Plus Deposit)” is the first deposit product of its kind in Japan*, established through a partnership between Resona Bank, Limited and Kumon Institute of Education Co., Ltd. The program aims to address educational disparities in Japan by setting forth a clear and tangible goal of providing learning opportunities to children, thereby contributing to the resolution of social challenges.

(*As of September 8, 2025, based on research by the Resona Group.)

Under this initiative, Resona Bank will donate an amount equivalent to 0.1% of the total time deposit placed by our company to Kumon Institute of Education Co., Ltd. These donations will be utilized to offer elementary school children facing economic hardship the opportunity to study free of charge at Kumon learning centers.

Our company is committed to realizing a sustainable society and has been promoting social contribution initiatives across a wide range of fields both in Japan and overseas. As part of these efforts, we have been actively engaged in educational support activities, and, in alignment with this commitment, we have made a deposit in the Social Impact Deposit program in support of its objectives.

Going forward, we will continue to implement a variety of initiatives through our corporate activities to help realize a sustainable society, including our ongoing participation in programs such as the Social Impact Deposit.
