Announcement Regarding Issuance of Stock Options (Stock Acquisition Rights) to Employees of the Company

Rakuten Bank, Ltd. (the “Company”) announces that, at the Board of Directors’ meeting held today, the Board of Directors resolved to issue stock acquisition rights (“SARs”) as stock options to the employees under the following conditions pursuant to the provisions of Articles 236, 238 and 240 of the Companies Act.

I. Reason for Issuing SARs

Since the value of the SARs is linked to the Company’s stock price, we believe that by granting the SARs to the Company’s employees, the Company’s employees will share the benefits of a rise in the Company’s stock price and the disadvantages of a fall in the stock price with shareholders and increase their motivation to contribute to the improvement of the Company’s performance and rise on its stock price.

A portion of SARs granted will become exercisable on or after the anniversary of one year from the date of issuance of the SARs, thereafter the percentage of exercisable portion will increase gradually until the day before the anniversary of four years from the date of issuance of the SARs, and on and after the anniversary of four years, all of the part of the SARs will become exercisable. Such SARs that become exercisable gradually will be exercisable from the date one year after the date of issuance of the SARs, so that the system will be more attractive to personnel who newly join the Company and will also contribute to attracting excellent personnel. On the other hand, by leaving the portion of the SARs that cannot be exercised until the anniversary date four years after the date of issuance of the SARs, it will function as an incentive to improve the Company’s long-term performance and increase its share price, as well as to retain existing excellent human resources.
