(2) Reasons for the Revision

Based on the results for the 3Q FY2026/3, the Company has revised its forecasts as follows:

Net sales are expected to increase from the previous forecast. This growth is primarily driven by the entire Company's working in unison to strengthen customer engagement under the President's leadership in sales initiatives; in the Mobility Equipment Business, a sustained trend of production increases for internal combustion engine (ICE) vehicles is seen, reflecting a temporary stagnation in the growth of the electric vehicle (EV) market; in the Home Electronics Business, demand from major customers has outperformed the Company's conservative initial projections; and in addition, the impact of recent exchange rate trends has been factored into this revision.

Operating profit is expected to exceed the previously announced forecast, despite the continued presence of external cost-pressures stemming from geopolitical risks, such as additional tariffs in the U.S. and rare earths regulations in China. This positive outlook is supported by the impact of increased sales and the relentless pursuit of cost-reduction activities by Comrades* across the organization worldwide, under the "President's Checkup", to promote initiatives such as labor-saving manufacturing which go beyond simple automation to further fortify and "thicken" the Company's quality assurance framework through continuous professional improvement.

Ordinary profit is expected to outperform the previous forecast due to the impact of foreign exchange rate fluctuations. Net profit attributable to owners of the parent company is also expected to surpass the previous forecast, reflecting the increase in ordinary profit and a review of the associated tax expenses.

In light of the factors above, the Company has revised its full-year consolidated earnings forecast upward.

*Comrade: We intentionally call employees Comrades as they are far more than colleagues or teammates: we have overcome fierce struggles against all odds in the past and now fight for a bright future, powered by our "Scrum of Fire," a symbol of passionate and unbreakable unity.
