2. Reason for revisions

In the Power Electronics Business, the product lineup for which the Company had anticipated sales from the current fiscal year onward has diverged from customer needs, leading to a revision of the sales plan. Following this review, the Company determined that certain components procured in advance to meet expected demand now have a reduced likelihood of being sold. Accordingly, the Company will record disposal losses and valuation losses on a portion of these slow-moving inventories during the current fiscal year. Consequently, the Company has revised its full-year consolidated financial results forecasts as stated above.
