Officer compensation consists of basic fixed compensation, performance-linked compensation as a short-term incentive, and non-monetary stock-based compensation as a medium- to long-term incentive to enhance the Group's corporate value over the medium to long term and further share value with shareholders.

The composition of annual compensation is approximately 60% base compensation, 25% performance-linked compensation, and 15% stock-based compensation.

Outside directors and directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members are paid basic compensation only given that their role is to audit and supervise management from an independent perspective.

3) Overview of the compensation system

The Company determines the amount of each form of compensation according to a compensation table, in accordance with rank, individual performance, and other factors.

For performance-linked compensation is linked to the indicators of average rates of growth in consolidated revenue and consolidated operating income over the past three terms and the rates of change in amounts of dividends and number of months' salary paid as employee bonuses, to incorporate the perspective of value sharing with shareholders and employees.

Specifically, the Company calculates the compensation amounts by multiplying a performance-linked compensation indexation coefficient calculated using the formula below by the amounts for each rank in the compensation table.

Performance-linked compensation coefficient = (Average percentage for the past three terms for consolidated revenue + Average percentage for the past three terms for consolidated operating income + Rate of change in dividend amount + Rate of change in number of months of employee bonuses)/4

* Each performance indicator is equally weighted.

* The performance-linked compensation indexation coefficient is limited to a maximum of 150%, and there is no minimum.

-Restricted stock compensation is used as the method for stock-based compensation, as resolved at the 75th Annual General Meeting of Shareholders. In principle, monetary compensation is paid in the form of monetary compensation claims for the allotment of restricted stock to each eligible director, based on a resolution of the Company's Board of Directors each fiscal year. Shares of the Company's common stock are delivered through issuance or disposal by the Company, in return for contribution in kind of all of the said monetary compensation claims, and held by the recipient.

When the Company issues or disposes of shares of its common stock in this way, it concludes a restricted stock allotment agreement with the eligible directors. This agreement forbids the transfer, creation, or promise of creation of a security interest on, or disposal by other means of common shares of the Company delivered under this compensation scheme, from the date when the shares are delivered until the time of the director's retirement.

If any of the eligible directors and executive officers is a non-resident of Japan as of the meeting of the Board of Directors which determines the amount of monetary compensation claims and the number of shares to be allotted, said director or executive officer shall not be granted monetary compensation claims or allotted shares. Instead, said director or executive officer shall be provided with cash compensation linked to the Company's stock price, etc. which has the same economic value as the restricted stock (phantom stock).

4) Method used to determine the amount of compensation

The Company calculates the amount of compensation and the number of shares in accordance with each compensation table based on the evaluation by each representative director, and consults the details with the Nomination and Compensation Committee.

Regarding performance-linked compensation, the amount of compensation is calculated using the method described above and is consulted with the Nomination and Compensation Committee. The Nomination and Compensation Committee deliberates on the appropriateness and appropriateness of basic compensation, performance-linked compensation, and stock-based compensation amounts for each individual employee, reports the results to the Audit and Supervisory Committee, and reports the details to the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors makes a final decision based on the report of the Nomination and Compensation Committee and the results of deliberations by the Audit and Supervisory Committee.

The basic remuneration of Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members is determined separately based on discussions between Directors who are Audit and Supervisory Committee Members.
