Notice Regarding Fund Outflow Incident at Our Mexican Subsidiary

Roland Corporation (the “Company”) hereby announces that an incident involving outflow of funds has occurred at our Mexican subsidiary due to fraudulent instructions given by a malicious third party. The details of the incident and our response are outlined below.

1. Background and Overview of the Incident

A malicious third party impersonated the CEO and Representative Director of the Company, and gave payment instructions to the representative of our Mexican subsidiary, directing a transfer of funds to a designated bank account. Believing these instructions to be legitimate, the Mexican subsidiary executed multiple transfers to the designated account.

The incident was identified internally as a fraudulent act on April 25, 2026 (Japan time).

- Amount of loss: USD 857 thousand (approximately JPY 136 million) (as of April 27, 2026)
- Dates of occurrence: April 21 and April 23, 2026 (Mexico time)

2. Actions Taken by the Company and the Mexican Subsidiary

Upon discovery of the incident, the Company and the Mexican subsidiary have taken the following actions:

- Requested the remitting and receiving financial institutions to initiate procedures and investigations aimed at recovering the funds
- Coordinated with local and relevant international legal counsel to consider and implement reporting of this matter to the appropriate authorities and taking legal measures
- Conducted confirmation of the facts and an internal investigation

The Company will continue to take appropriate actions, including pursuing the possibility of fund recovery.

3. Impact on Financial Performance

The impact of this incident on the Company’s consolidated financial results for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2026 is expected to be immaterial. Should any matters requiring disclosure arise in the future, the Company will promptly make further announcements.

4. Measures to Prevent Recurrence

In light of this incident, the Company and its subsidiaries will implement the following measures to prevent recurrence:

- Strengthening verification procedures for instructions purportedly given in the name of officers and other managements
- Reviewing remittance and payment approval processes, including those at overseas subsidiaries
- Providing thorough alerts and training to relevant managements and employees

We sincerely apologize for the concern and inconvenience caused to our shareholders and all other stakeholders. The Company is committed to further strengthening its internal controls and governance across the Group.
