Notice regarding resolution of lawsuit against Roland Corporation and its subsidiary company

As previously announced in our notice dated December 23, 2022, “Notice regarding the Filed Lawsuit against Roland Corporation and its subsidiary company”, a collective proceedings were filed with the Competition Appeal Tribunal in UK (the “Lawsuit”) against Roland Corporation (the “Company”) and its subsidiary, Roland Europe Group Limited (Reading, UK) (“REG”; together with the Company, “Roland”). The Company hereby announces that the Lawsuit has been concluded because the claimant applied to the Tribunal to withdraw its claim, and the Tribunal approved such withdrawal. Details are as follows.

1. Outline of the Claimant and the Content of the Lawsuit

Elisabetta Sciallis (London, UK) (the "Plaintiff") filed the Lawsuit, seeking an aggregate award of damages on behalf of those who purchased electronic drum kits and related components and accessories manufactured by the Company (the "Electronic Drum Kits, etc.") and supplied in the UK between January 7, 2011 and September 30, 2015 and those who purchased Electronic Drum Kits, etc. and any other electronic musical product manufactured by the Company and supplied in the UK between October 1, 2015 and April 17, 2019. REG and the Company had been served with collective proceedings claim on December 16, 2022 and September 21, 2023, respectively.

2. Background of the Resolution of the Lawsuit

Following a case management conference held by the Tribunal on March 19, 2026, the Lawsuit had been progressing through pre-certification procedures. However, on June 3, 2026, the Plaintiff notified the Tribunal of its intention to withdraw the Lawsuit, and, upon the Tribunal's approval of such withdrawal on July 13, 2026, the Lawsuit was concluded.

3. Future Outlook

The impact of this resolution of the Lawsuit on the Company's consolidated financial results is immaterial, and there is no change to the Company's financial forecast.
