(Update on Previously Disclosed Matter) Notice Regarding Changes to Loan Repayment Terms

As announced in our “(Change to Previously Disclosed Matters) Notice of Changes to Loan Repayment Terms and Uses of Funds” dated April 21, 2026, we entered into agreements with nine financial institutions to amend the terms of our existing borrowings, including the deferral of principal repayments for the period from April 30, 2026 through September 30, 2026.

We have now reached an agreement with these financial institutions to extend the principal repayment deferral period for the aforementioned borrowings. Accordingly, at a meeting of the Board of Directors held today, we resolved to further amend the repayment terms of such borrowings and hereby announce the details as follows.

1. Changes to Loan Repayment Terms

(1) Reason for the change

As announced in our “Notice Regarding Changes to Disclosure Items: Changes to Loan Repayment Terms and Use of Proceeds” dated April 21, 2026, we entered into agreements with nine financial institutions to amend the terms of our existing borrowings, including the deferral of principal repayments for the period from April 30, 2026 through September 30, 2026.

We have now reached an agreement with these financial institutions to extend the principal repayment deferral period for the aforementioned borrowings. Accordingly, at a meeting of the Board of Directors held today, we resolved to further amend the repayment terms of such borrowings and hereby announce the details as follows.

The business environment surrounding the Company is undergoing a major transformation, driven by changes in external factors such as the 2026 medical fee revision. In light of these circumstances, the Company has positioned the fiscal year ending March 31, 2027 as a period for implementing structural reforms and is working to transform its revenue model, reform its cost structure, and improve utilization rates. As these structural reforms will require a certain period of time to implement, ensuring the stability of the Company's financial base and maintaining adequate liquidity during such period have become important management priorities. Accordingly, the Company held a bank meeting on March 27, 2026, and submitted a proposal to its nine lender banks requesting a deferral of principal repayments from April 30, 2026 to September 30, 2026, together with the execution of amendments to loan agreements and other related contracts. As a result, all nine financial institutions agreed to the proposed repayment deferral, and the Company entered into agreements with each of them to amend the relevant repayment terms.

Subsequently, as the end of the initial repayment deferral period approached, the Company held another bank meeting on August 26, 2026, and submitted a proposal to its nine lender banks requesting a further deferral of principal repayments from October 1, 2026 to March 31, 2027, together with the execution of the necessary amendments to loan agreements and other related contracts. As a result, all nine financial institutions agreed to the proposed repayment deferral.

The Company will utilize this repayment deferral period to steadily implement structural reform measures, rebuild its business foundation, restore profitability, and strengthen its organizational framework for stable and sustainable long-term growth.

(2) Overview of changes to loan repayment terms

The Company has obtained the consent of all nine financial institutions to defer the repayment of a total principal amount of 574 million yen in borrowings due during the period from October 1, 2026 to March 31, 2027 (representing the amount due during such period out of total repayment obligations of 6,197 million yen as of September 30, 2026).

Interest payments will continue as usual during the repayment deferral period. Going forward, the Company will sequentially enter into agreements with each financial institution regarding the amendments to the repayment terms.

2. Future outlook

The Company expects the impact of this change on its financial results for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2027 to be minimal.

Any impact on the Company's financial results for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2028 and thereafter will be reflected in and disclosed together with future earnings forecasts when such forecasts are announced.
