Vision launches exclusive user benefits through collaboration with GVA Houjin Touki.

Vision Inc. (Headquarters: Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo; President, Representative Director and COO Kenji Ota; hereinafter Vision) launched a collaboration with GVA TECH, Inc. (Headquarters: Shibuya-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director Shun Yamamoto), the provider of the “GVA Houjin Touki” service, to enable Vision’s users to access the service at discounted rate.

“GVA Houjin Touki” is a legal tech service that streamlines the preparation of corporate registration application form online. The service supports frequently required registration procedures, such as changes in corporate officers after company establishment and relocation of the head office, enabling users to complete application preparation quickly and accurately. It features an automated document creation function supervised by a judicial scrivener and a user interface (UI) design to visualize the application process status.

Vision has provided a variety of services that support business foundations, including communication infrastructure, office automation equipment, and mobile solutions. Through this collaboration, we aim to reduce administrative burdens (time, personnel, and costs) on SMEs and startup companies, which are our major clients in the Information and Communications Service Business, thereby supporting an environment where they can focus on their core business.

■ Background and purpose of the collaboration

In SMEs and startups, it is common for a few staff members to handle multiple roles, and corporate registration procedures tend to place a significant burden for business owners and staff.

We are advancing our collaboration with partner services to address these issues, allowing more companies to focus their resources on activities directly linked to growth.

This collaboration with “GVA Houjin Touki” is a part of its initiative to strengthen support for “back-office efficiency.”

Going forward, Vision will continue to promote collaboration with external services, primarily in the telecommunications, IT, and cloud sectors, that support corporate productivity improvement and work style reform. By acting as a “connector,” we are committed to contributing to the social growth.
