The state of corporate governance of RENOVA, Inc. (“the Company”) is described below.

I. Fundamental Views on Corporate Governance, Capital Structure, Corporate Attributes, and Other Key Information

1. Basic Views

The Company conducts business in line with its mission “To create green and sustainable energy systems for a better world” and its vision “To become Asia’s renewable energy leader.” The Company believes that to achieve these goals it is important to gain the trust of local communities, our customers, shareholders, employees, and all other stakeholders. To this end, we are strengthening and improving our corporate governance by building a legal compliance system, quick decision-making and operation system, and appropriate supervision and monitoring system.

[Reasons for Non-compliance with Principles of Japan’s Corporate Governance Code] 【Update】

a. Supplementary principle 2.4.1 Ensuring diversity in the promotion to core human resources

- The Company believes that all of its employees are core employees for realizing its corporate mission: “To create green and sustainable energy systems for a better world.”
- Based on this assumption, the source of the Company’s competitiveness is “each human resources (“individual”)” and “teams.” The renewable energy business takes advantage of natural conditions and climates that differ from region to region. To harness such diverse natural conditions and climates for business purposes, the Company must incorporate diversity and have a high level of collective intelligence created by diversity. To this end, the Company has always promoted equality in its recruitment, evaluation and promotion of diverse employees, to harness the diversity of capable individuals with differing experiences, approaches and views, regardless of race, gender, age, nationality and other individual differences.
- As a result, as of May 31, 2025, the percentage of mid-career hires on a Group basis (the Company and its consolidated subsidiaries) was 89.9 %, the percentage of female employees was 26.5 %, and the percentage of foreign nationals among employees was 10.0 %.
- Going forward, the Company will continue working on personnel and organization strategies to harness the strength of capable individuals, rather than setting numerical targets for different attributes and pursuing them. These strategies will be in line with the Company’s business strategies of multiple energy technologies aiming to expand business over the medium-to long-term in the renewable energy and storage battery market in and outside Japan.

- The Company will tirelessly pursue inclusion and diversity by developing workplace environments aimed at “being barrier free and creating no barriers” so that all “individuals” play an active part through putting the right people into the right jobs and by implementing initiatives aimed at fostering employee understanding to eliminate any misunderstanding, ignorance and lack of awareness about diversity.

b. Supplementary principle 4.10.1 Approach to the independence of the Nomination and Compensation Committee, as well as its authority and role RENOVA has the Nomination and Compensation Committee, a discretionary advisory body to the Board of Directors, established to ensure the propriety of, and the transparency and objectivity in the process of, nomination and determining compensation for Directors and Executive Officers.

The Nomination and Compensation Committee currently consists of two Independent External Directors and two Internal Directors. The chair of the Committee is Director and Chairman, Mr. Koichi Kawana, who is a non-executive director among Internal Directors.

The reason for appointing Director and Chairman Mr. Koichi Kawana as the chair is that we expect him to conduct substantive discussions on management nominations and compensation and make recommendations to the Board of Directors based on his extensive experience and knowledge as a top executive at a listed company. As described above, Independent External Directors do not currently constitute a majority of the committee members. However, given that Director and Chairman Mr. Koichi Kawana, who is the chair, does not have experience in business execution in the Company and will not engage in business execution in the future, this nearly qualifies him as an Independent External Director. Therefore, it is our view that sufficient objectivity and transparency are provided as a whole.

[Disclosure Based on Principles of Japan’s Corporate Governance Code] 【Update】

Actions taken by the Company in relation to the disclosures specified in each principle of the Governance Code are as follows.

a. Principle 1.4 Cross-Shareholdings

The Company currently holds no listed shares for the purpose of cross-shareholding. The Company has no intention of holding shares for the purpose of cross-shareholding in the future but, if it did, it would exercise voting rights from the viewpoint of the sustainable growth of the investee and the enhancement of its share value over the medium and long term.

b. Principle 1.7 Related Party Transactions

- The Company’s Compliance Charter demands compliance for the prevention of conflicts of interest and the Rules of the Board of Directors and Rules on Decision-making Authority stipulate to the effect that transactions between Directors and the Company require the prior approval of the Board of Directors.

- The Company checks and monitors transactions between officers themselves or their families, within two degrees of separation (includes companies they own or subsidiaries thereof), and the Company or subsidiaries of the Company and discloses material transactions in its Annual Securities Report.

c. Principle 2.6 Roles of Corporate Pension Funds as Asset Owners

The Company does not have a corporate pension fund plan. It has introduced a corporate defined contribution pension plan for the steady build-up of employees' assets.

d. Principle 3.1 i) Company objectives (e.g. business principles), business strategies and business plans;

1. Company objectives (e.g. business principles)

The Company conducts business in line with its mission "To create green and sustainable energy systems for a better world" and its vision "To become Asia's renewable energy leader."

To realize its mission and vision, the Company defines the following as "Our Commitments."

- The Earth: To contribute towards a sustainable society and planet
- Communities: To create value in partnership with local communities, and respect their heritage and cultures
- Customers: To generate clean and efficient energy for our customers
- Shareholders: To generate sustained growth in z
- Employees: To gather the best people, and provide exciting career and growth opportunities for our employees

2. Business strategies

- Focus on renewable energy in the medium to long run.

Decarbonization and the expansion of introduction of renewable energy are global trends. In February 2025, the Japanese government approved the Seventh Strategic Energy Plan, which aims to increase the ratio of renewable energy in Japan's energy mix to around 40-50% by FY2040, and the Plan for Global Warming Countermeasures, which aims to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by 73% in comparison with FY2013 levels. Efforts by companies participating in RE100—an international initiative in which companies aim to procure 100% of the electricity used in their own businesses from renewable energy technologies—are also becoming more active, and there are an increasing number of examples of corporate PPAs, in which electricity users enter into power purchase agreement directly with power generators. In light of these developments, there is growing demand for power generated using renewable energy technologies. With this growing demand, fluctuations in power generation are expected to increase, and grid storage batteries and renewable energy co-generation storage batteries—which adjust the power supply-demand balance—are becoming increasingly important as a means of maintaining a stable supply of power. Starting in January 2024, the Japanese government also launched the Long-Term Decarbonization Power Source Auction to secure the supply capabilities of decarbonized power technologies. Going forward, the Group will expand its business in the medium to long term in this growing renewable energy and storage battery market.

- Develop energy technologies and green transformation (GX) business both in Japan and abroad as an independent company.

The Group owns power generation plants both in Japan and overseas using multiple energy technologies, including solar PV, biomass power, onshore wind power, and geothermal power, and aspires to intensively develop solar PV, onshore wind power, and storage battery projects going forward. The Group will aim to further increase power generation capacity by promoting the corporate PPA business that sells electricity directly to electricity users with growing needs to procure renewable energy, without relying solely on the FIT system. Leveraging its characteristics of being an independent group, the Group will develop large-scale, leading-edge multiple energy technologies through cooperation with diverse partners. In addition to the development of power technologies, the Group has also promoted GX business such as storage batteries and new fuels including ammonia and hydrogen. Construction of our first grid storage battery project, the Himeji Energy Storage Facility, began in August 2023. In February 2025, we made final investment decisions for three grid energy storage facilities (Tomakomai-shi, Hokkaido Prefecture; Shiraoi-cho, Shiraoi County, Hokkaido Prefecture; and Mutsumi, Mori-machi, Shuchi County, Shizuoka Prefecture) selected in the 2023 Long-Term Decarbonization Power Source Auction, and are proceeding with preparations for their construction. In Texas, USA, the Company has signed an agreement to acquire a 70% equity stake in a storage battery business. In addition, we are participating in the solar-battery hybrid business (150 MW of solar power generation capacity and 150 MW of storage battery capacity) of Pathway Power Holdings LLC, our capital and business alliance partner, and are jointly developing the project.

- Pursue high profitability through in-house engineering and key development operations.

To improve the probability of success in business development, increase profitability, and facilitate the rapid development of business, the Company has a policy of maintaining specialists in each field in the important process of business development, including engineering, while undertaking high value-added works internally.

- Actively reinvest stable cash flow in new project development and the internal growth of existing projects.

The Group actively reinvests steady, long-term cash flow from existing power plants into new business development and seeks sustainable growth with the aim of increasing its corporate value, thereby raising its share value.

- Aim for long-term growth through coexistence and co-creation with local communities.

The Group will own and operate its renewable power plants and energy storage facilities across Japan for the long term. The Group also values the view that renewable energy is a resource inherent in its local area and a power plant is given permission to use the resource. As of March 31, 2025, the total output of the Group's power plants in operation reached approximately 1.5GW, making it one of the largest business scale in Japan. The Group's medium-term goal is to increase the total output of its power plants in operation and under construction to over 4GW (4,000MW). We will continue to engage in aggressive upfront investment and business development both in Japan and overseas, aiming for further growth.

Explanation on Relevant Items 【Update】

The Group has identified the improvement of share value as one of its key management principles. To sustainably and continuously improve share value, the Group recognizes the importance of emphasizing the cost of capital and continuously generating returns that exceed it. Although the Group's renewable energy business and GX business require significant initial investments, they also have the characteristic of offering highly predictable long-term stable cash flow after the start of operations at power plants and energy storage facilities, enabling the Group to estimate the value of its existing businesses with a high degree of certainty at the time of commencing construction. Accordingly, the Group has established appropriate management indicators tailored toward this characteristic.

Because the Group's businesses require significant initial investments, non-cash expenses such as depreciation and amortization account for a large portion of total expenses. As a result, our power to generate cash flow tends to be significantly higher than the profit shown on our income statement. We are also able to achieve high capital efficiency by utilizing project financing with high leverage, backed by stable long-term cash flows. Based on these characteristics, we emphasize EBITDA as a key management indicator that represents the power to generate cash flow, and aim for its sustainable growth.

When making investment decisions, we use the internal rate of return (IRR) on the amount invested as our main indicator. In principle, we require that the expected IRR value for a given investment exceeds the cost of capital by a certain level, based on investment criteria established for each country and power technology. Additionally, in order to prioritize investments in businesses that are expected to generate greater increases in share value from among candidate businesses that meet our IRR criteria, we emphasize the net present value (NPV) of businesses and aim to achieve sustainable growth in NPV.

The Group's emphasis on EBITDA and NPV to achieve sustainable growth in share value is also stated in its Medium-Term Management Plan, announced on May 13, 2025.

[Incentives]

Implementation of Measures to Provide Incentives to Directors and/or Executive Officers	Introduction of performance-based compensation plans

Supplementary Explanation

In 2018 and 2021 respectively, the Company introduced a performance-based stock compensation plan using a trust, as an incentive plan for Directors (compensation is not based on performance for External Directors) aimed at further increasing motivation to contribute to improving the Company's medium- and long-term business performance and stock value by clarifying the linkage between compensation for the Directors and the Company's stock value.

The stock compensation plan introduced in 2018 covers only External Directors and consists of non-performance-based stock compensation, which is not linked to business performance at all. The ratio of non-performance-based stock compensation to the basic compensation is 20% across the board.

The performance-linked indicator emphasized in the stock compensation plan introduced in 2021 is the cumulative total power generation capacity (GW) of renewable energy plants and power storage facilities in operation, plants whose development-related investments have been determined, and plants acknowledged in development pipelines.

The calculation method for the amount of performance-based stock compensation is determined by the Board of Directors in accordance with factors such as degree of contribution, level of expectation and degree of achievement of performance targets and based on the deliberations and recommendations of the Nomination and Compensation Committee.

For details of the stock compensation plan for Directors, please refer to the disclosure in the Annual Securities Report. <https://www.renovainc.com/ir/securities/>

The details of remuneration for individual Directors are determined by the Board of Directors and the Company judges that the details of remuneration are in accordance with such policies.

(c) Basic policy on officers' compensation

Our mission is "to create green and sustainable energy systems for a better world," and our vision is "to become Asia's renewable energy leader."

To realize its vision in accordance with its mission outlined above, the Company adopts the following basic policy on officers' compensation:

1. Developing an environment that facilitates the promotion of human resources with professional skills in each area.
2. Establishing a compensation plan that helps the Company to attract and retain excellent human resources suitable for an executive position.
3. Making a commitment to realizing the medium- to long-term growth of the Company by focusing on it.

5. Ensuring flexible and speedy operation to enable the Company to recruit appropriate human resources for appropriate positions and respond to their retention needs.
6. Ensuring the objectivity and transparency of the compensation decision process to build the foundation for external accountability.

(2) Approach to compensation levels

Referring to an external compensation database to determine compensation for officers, the Company sets compensation taking the scale of its business when it reaches its medium-to-long term targets into consideration and also using the compensation levels of companies engaged in the renewable energy business in Japan and overseas into consideration so that the Company can secure a certain level of competitiveness in competitions for obtaining human resource.

(3) Structure of compensation

Compensation for Directors (excluding External Directors) and Executive Officers is composed of (i) basic compensation (monetary compensation), (ii) performance-based stock compensation based on performance targets as an entire company and performance targets as an individual, and (iii) non-performance-based stock compensation according to degree of contribution and degree of expectation, and the proportion of stock compensation to basic compensation ranges from 0% to 50%.

In addition, the performance-linked indicator emphasized in the stock compensation plan introduced in 2021 is the cumulative total power generation capacity (GW) of renewable energy plants and power storage facilities in operation, plants whose development-related investments have been determined, and plants acknowledged in development pipelines.

To ensure a neutral and objective oversight function, compensation for External Directors is composed of basic compensation (monetary compensation) and non-performance-based stock compensation which has no connection whatsoever with performance, and the proportion of non-performance-based stock compensation to basic compensation is always 20%.

In addition, to secure and retain talent on a global scale, the level and composition of compensation for human resources hired from different labor markets where laws and regulations and employment practices are vastly different are sometimes determined by the Board of Directors based on deliberations and recommendations by the Nomination and Compensation Committee.

(4) Malus/Clawback clause

The rules of the stock compensation plan introduced by resolution of the 19th Annual General Meeting of Shareholders held on August 29, 2018 and the 23rd Annual General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 17, 2022 stipulate that, if the Company suffers damage or might suffer damage as a result of a serious breach of internal regulations, an illegal act, deliberate intent or gross negligence, then by resolution of the Board of Directors based on the deliberations and recommendations of the Nomination and Compensation Committee, the Company may withhold some or all of the points granted.

Further, if the Company suffers damage or might suffer damage as a result of a serious breach of internal regulations, an illegal act, deliberate intent or gross negligence within 5 years of delivery of shares, then by resolution of the Board of Directors based on the deliberations and recommendations of the Nomination and Compensation Committee, the Company may demand the return of some or all of the shares and cash which have been delivered.

The Nomination and Compensation Committee is chaired by the Director and Chairman, who is a non-executive director, and has four members in total, also including the Representative Director and President, and two External Directors. At least half of the members are External Directors.

The Company also hires an external consultant with extensive experience, knowhow and expertise in establishing global compensation plans, establishing a system for considering the compensation plan with reference to a wide range of factors including industrial trends, management conditions and data on a global scale.

[Supporting System for External Directors (and External Audit & Supervisory Board Member)]
