Notice Regarding Selection as a Constituent of the “JPX Start-Up Acceleration 100 Index”

RENOVA, Inc. announces that it has been selected as a constituent of the “JPX Start-Up Acceleration 100 Index,” calculated by JPX Market Innovation & Research, Inc.

The “JPX Start-Up Acceleration 100 Index” is a stock price index composed of 100 prominent high-growth startup companies in Japan. Eligible constituents include companies listed on the TSE Growth Market, as well as those that have recently transferred from it. The selection process evaluates growth potential based on strict criteria, such as sales growth rate (20% or more year-on-year) and market capitalization growth rate (doubling compared to one year or six months ago).

The constituents of this index were announced on February 13, 2026. RENOVA’s shares are officially scheduled to be included in the index from March 9, 2026, coinciding with the launch of its real-time calculation and distribution.

Under the mission, “To create green and sustainable energy systems for a better world,” the Company has striven to expand its business toward the realization of a decarbonized society through the development and operation of multiple technologies such as solar PV, biomass, wind, and geothermal, as well as storage batteries.

Moving forward, RENOVA will continue to expand the development and business of renewable energy and storage batteries and maximize our corporate value to meet the expectations of our stakeholders.
